Everybody Was There Republican Rally On Saturday Night

The Republicans of the Fourth and Fifth Districts united in a monster mass meeting at the Orpheum Saturday night resulting in packing that large hall with the largest and most intelligent audience that has assembled in years in Honolulu for the purpose of listening to political preaching. The hall was inadequate to accommodate the hundreds which mounted into the thousands who came out to show where their hearts stood politically. It is no exaggeration to say that there were over 2500 people who participated in the Republican demonstration Saturday night. Long before the four hundred uniformed members of the Fifth District Marching Club arrived and long before the cavalcade headed by Sam Johnson from the Fourth, came on the scene, every Orpheum seat was taken. A solid crowd packed the street for a block and a half in front of the Orpheum and the managers provided speakers for the overflow meeting. The cheering of this outside meeting frequently rolled into the packed hall, drowning the voice of orators in its tide.

A good brand of enthusiasm held the big multitude. The Orpheum hall and stage was arrayed in fluttering flags and pennants. The dress circle and many seats in the boxes were taken by ladies. There was an orchestra of Honolulu's best musicians in place. The setting was perfect to bring out the best in the orators of the evening.

On the stage with the speakers were numerous workers from the different precincts of both districts and a number of Representative candidates. The meeting was presided over by Geo. W. Smith. With him on the stage were U. S. District Attorney R. W. Breckons, Chairman A. G. M. Robertson of the Republican Committee, Hon. Samuel Parker, J. A. Gilman, Attorney General Lorin Andrews, Major Canara, M. A. Gonsalves, J. A. Hughes, Dr. C. B. Cooper, Dr. W. C. Wile of Danbury, Conn., C. L. Crabbe, C. M. White, W. C. Achi, S. F. Chillingworth, J. H. Fisher, A. V. Gear, Major Zeigler, Wm. Isaacs, C. M. V. Foster, J. A. Pianaia, A. Gartley, George A. Davis, Captain Pabel, W. C. Roe, H. E. Murray, E. A. Douthitt, Sam Johnson, W. C. Peacock, J. G. Pratt, Mr. Hertsch, Clem Quinn.

When Chairman Smith called the house to order there was not a vacant seat in the building and the aisles were packed by men standing. Mr. Smith opened with a quotation from President Roosevelt's letter of acceptance which ended with:

"Our Government is a government of orderly liberty equally alien to tyranny and to anarchy; and its foundation stone is the observance of the law alike by the people and by the Public Servants."

Mr. Smith said it was the manifest duty of every Republican to vote the straight ticket. He said the Republican ticket was a representative one, including men from every walk of life, from the capitalist to the humblest calling. It is the duty of Republicans to see that a Republican executive has the cooperation and assistance of a Republican Legislature.

A. G. M. Robertson, chairman of the Republican Central Committee, was the first speaker introduced. He reviewed the Republican platform in a clear and forceful manner, leaving no Republican with a cause to complain against the men who planned the recipe of the present political fight and formulated the issues. Mr. Robertson dwelt with especial emphasis on the three endorsements in the Republican platform, namely: the endorsement of President Roosevelt, the endorsement of Governor Carter, and the endorsement of Delegate Kuhl. He showed in a careful analysis of the work done under the Carter administration that there was every reason why the Republican convention at Hilo should endorse him and further, why every voter should support men who will undertake the public business in the same spirit and in harmony with the Governor. He said that Governor Carter had manifested the highest type of manhood in returning the undated resignations to the District Magistrate, after he had come to have doubts as to the wisdom of the policy.

Mr. Robertson said the last Legislature, in spite of its critics, had accomplished more than any other Legislature in the history of Hawaii. He expanded on the plank which recognizes the equality of labor and capital and protects the citizen in Hawaii as against the alien. He showed how the Republican party was bound and ready to carry out a policy of decentralization; to make it easier to obtain homesteads; to foster education restoring teachers' salaries; to bring Federal aid into the solution of the leprosy problem; to improve harbors and wharves and to provide for ex-Queen Liliuokalani. Mr. Robertson's effort was greeted with the closest attention throughout.

The Democratic platform was ridiculed by Attorney General Andrews. In a fusillade of artillery and rapid fire guns Mr. Andrews exposed the sophistries and absurdities of the Democratic document. He said the Democratic endorsement of the St. Louis platform if carried out meant the death knell of Hawaiian industry and prosperity. He made numerous clever hits, among which was the broiling he gave the Democratic platform. He pointed out that the only positive declaration in the Democratic platform was to raise taxes and the salaries of public officials. Mr. Andrews' speech was a running fire of pleasantries and invective and kept the audience on its feet throughout.

U. S. District Attorney Breckons made a telling speech. He attacked the theory that national issues were of no consequence to Hawaii. He believed the protective policy a vital one and was not surprised that Mr. Kinney, for the Democrats, sought to relegate the free trade issue to the rear. He said that to send a Democrat to Congress would be equivalent to a request for the removal of the tariff, which means millions to the islands. Mr. Breckons made a spirited defense of Kuhl's record. He made a splendid analysis of the attacks on the administration of Governor Carter. He said he was charged with the usurpation of power. He noted that Carter's bitter enemies had no charge of incompetency, indolence, dishonesty. They had only said he was doing good things but was not doing them in their way. Mr. Breckons said the same cry had come from the Democrats since the days of Jefferson and Jackson. It was always the other fellow who was breaking the Constitution and usurping power. As to the specific charge of usurpation in the matter of the undated resignations, he noted that the Senate had confirmed Governor Carter's appointees and in so doing, practically said: "Governor, your policy is correct."

Geo. A. Davis made a brief but brilliant statement of his position in politics. He could not be anything else than a Republican. He had not agreed with the executive's policy in every detail but, believed it better to elect a Republican Legislature to handle Governor Carter, rather than a Democratic one. He believed the office of Governor of Hawaii to be the most difficult office in America to fill. He had faith in Governor Carter.

C. M. White made a brief survey of the history of the Republican party. A number of specially composed songs were rendered by Mr. Ellis which, with the other music, was greatly appreciated by the audience.

The overflow meeting was presided over by H. W. Boyd. Speeches were made in Hawaiian by Messrs. Frank Andrade and Carlos Long. Rousing speeches were also made by Edward Keakaha, William Olepau, W. H. Crawford and others. The Portuguese band helped along with the enthusiasm but did not play its entire repertoire owing to the fact that its strains drowned the voices of the Orpheum speakers.

The first piece of genuine mechanism the modern world ever saw, a clock, was the invention of a Moor.
